Every person have his own personal goals and aims. It is not important what is it: good marks at school, first place at sport competition, trip in other countries or fighting with alcoholism. To achieve some goals is really hard; if it will be easy, your wish is not your goal.

What about me, I agree with this quotation of Henry David Thoreau. Just for me, it doesn't matter what methods do you use to take your aim. - The result is more important. Of course, when your dream become real, you will be very glad. It gives you more self confidence, power for future achievements, good mood.

For example, my main goal - is to become a doctor, to study in university of my dream in Moscow. I spend ~~all~~ all my free time and all my feelings to prepare for exams. But when I will study in university I will not remember all my fightings with exams, I will ^{have} only the fact of my studying and the fact of taking goal. So, it's more important just achieving of my goal.

But there are some situations, when I can't do something for my aim or dream. But it gives me really good motivation to work with myself very hard to make all my dreams real.

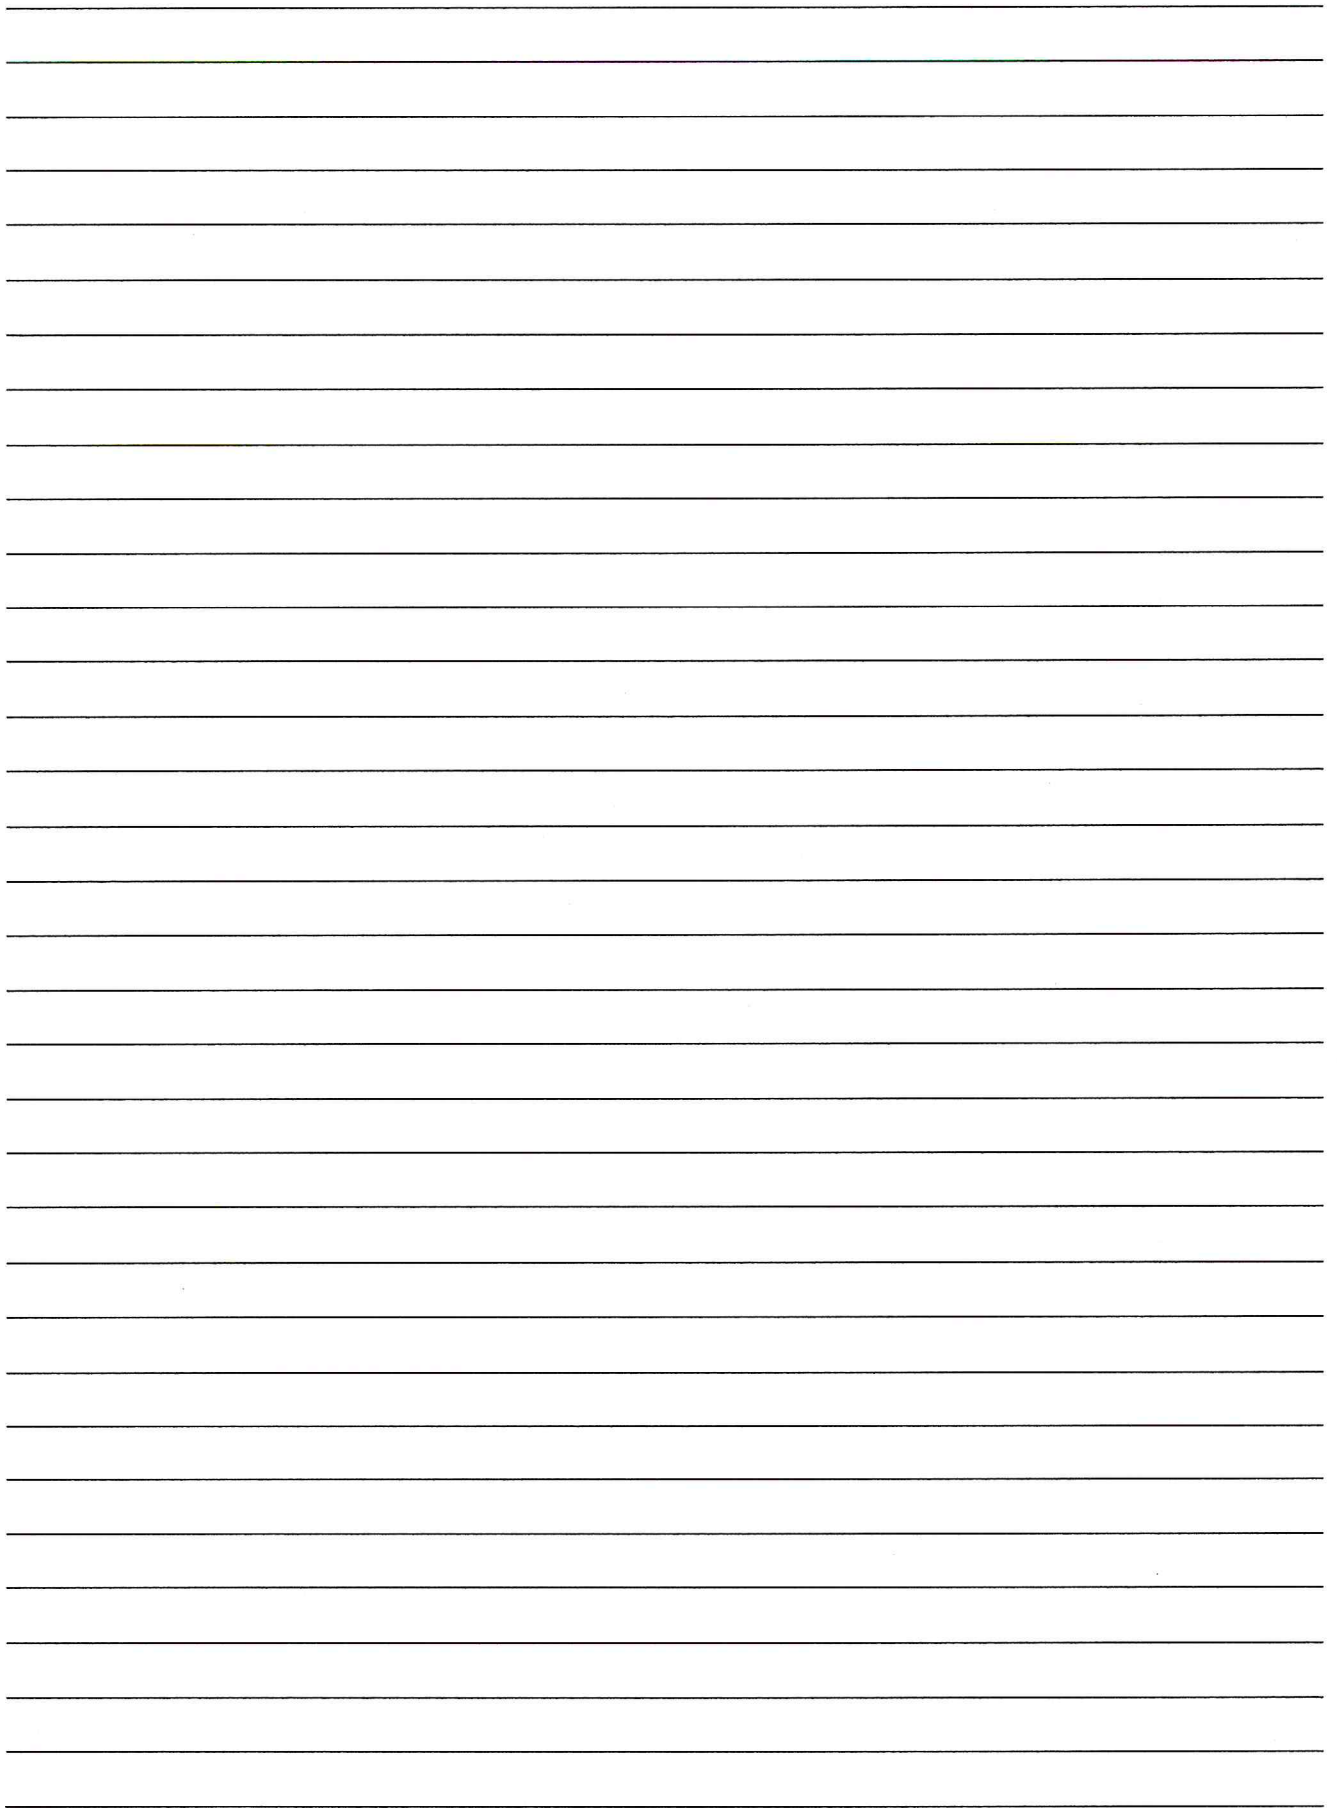

To sum up, I can say, that words of Henry David Thoreau are good for me. Really, when you take your goals you become happy, glad and it motivate you to do something new.

So, nowadays ~~many people believe that~~ what you get by achieving your goals is not as important as what you become by achieving your goals. Let's discuss it.

As for me

Henry David Thoreau said: "What you get by achieving your goals is not as important as what you become by achieving your goals." Let's discuss it.

As for me, I agree with his words. I consider them to be right and there are many reasons why I think so. It is obvious that on the way to achieving your dream you are becoming a strong-willed person with your own experience no matter if you get what you want or not. For example, if I want to get some well-paid job I have to become a smart and ~~gee~~ experienced man. And even if I don't get the job ^{that} I wanted I will remain a smart and experienced person and in the future there will be an opportunity of choice of many other good jobs. On the way to achieving your dream you are becoming a strong-willed person with your own experience and improving your skills. ~~ten about~~

I can describe my own example. When I was ten I wanted to be a teacher of English. I understand that if I wanted to become ~~the~~ teacher I had to study well and have good English knowledges. So, now I don't want to connect my life with teaching but good knowledges are still with me.

Well, this ~~pro~~ question is debatable, so many men, so many minds. I respect other opinings, but I suppose that my point^t of view is right.

What we can say about our goals? When people make their dreams come true, they even don't think about cost. How much will they pay to achieve something and what will they get in the end.

I want to agree with this expression. We have so many examples when a person received ~~that~~ what he wanted, but he is not happy. The simple example is some people who want to earn money. They will do anything to get to the point. They will lie and do the worst things to be better. I guess, this is a not good example, but it says us about humans attitude to goals and ~~the~~ ways of achieving.

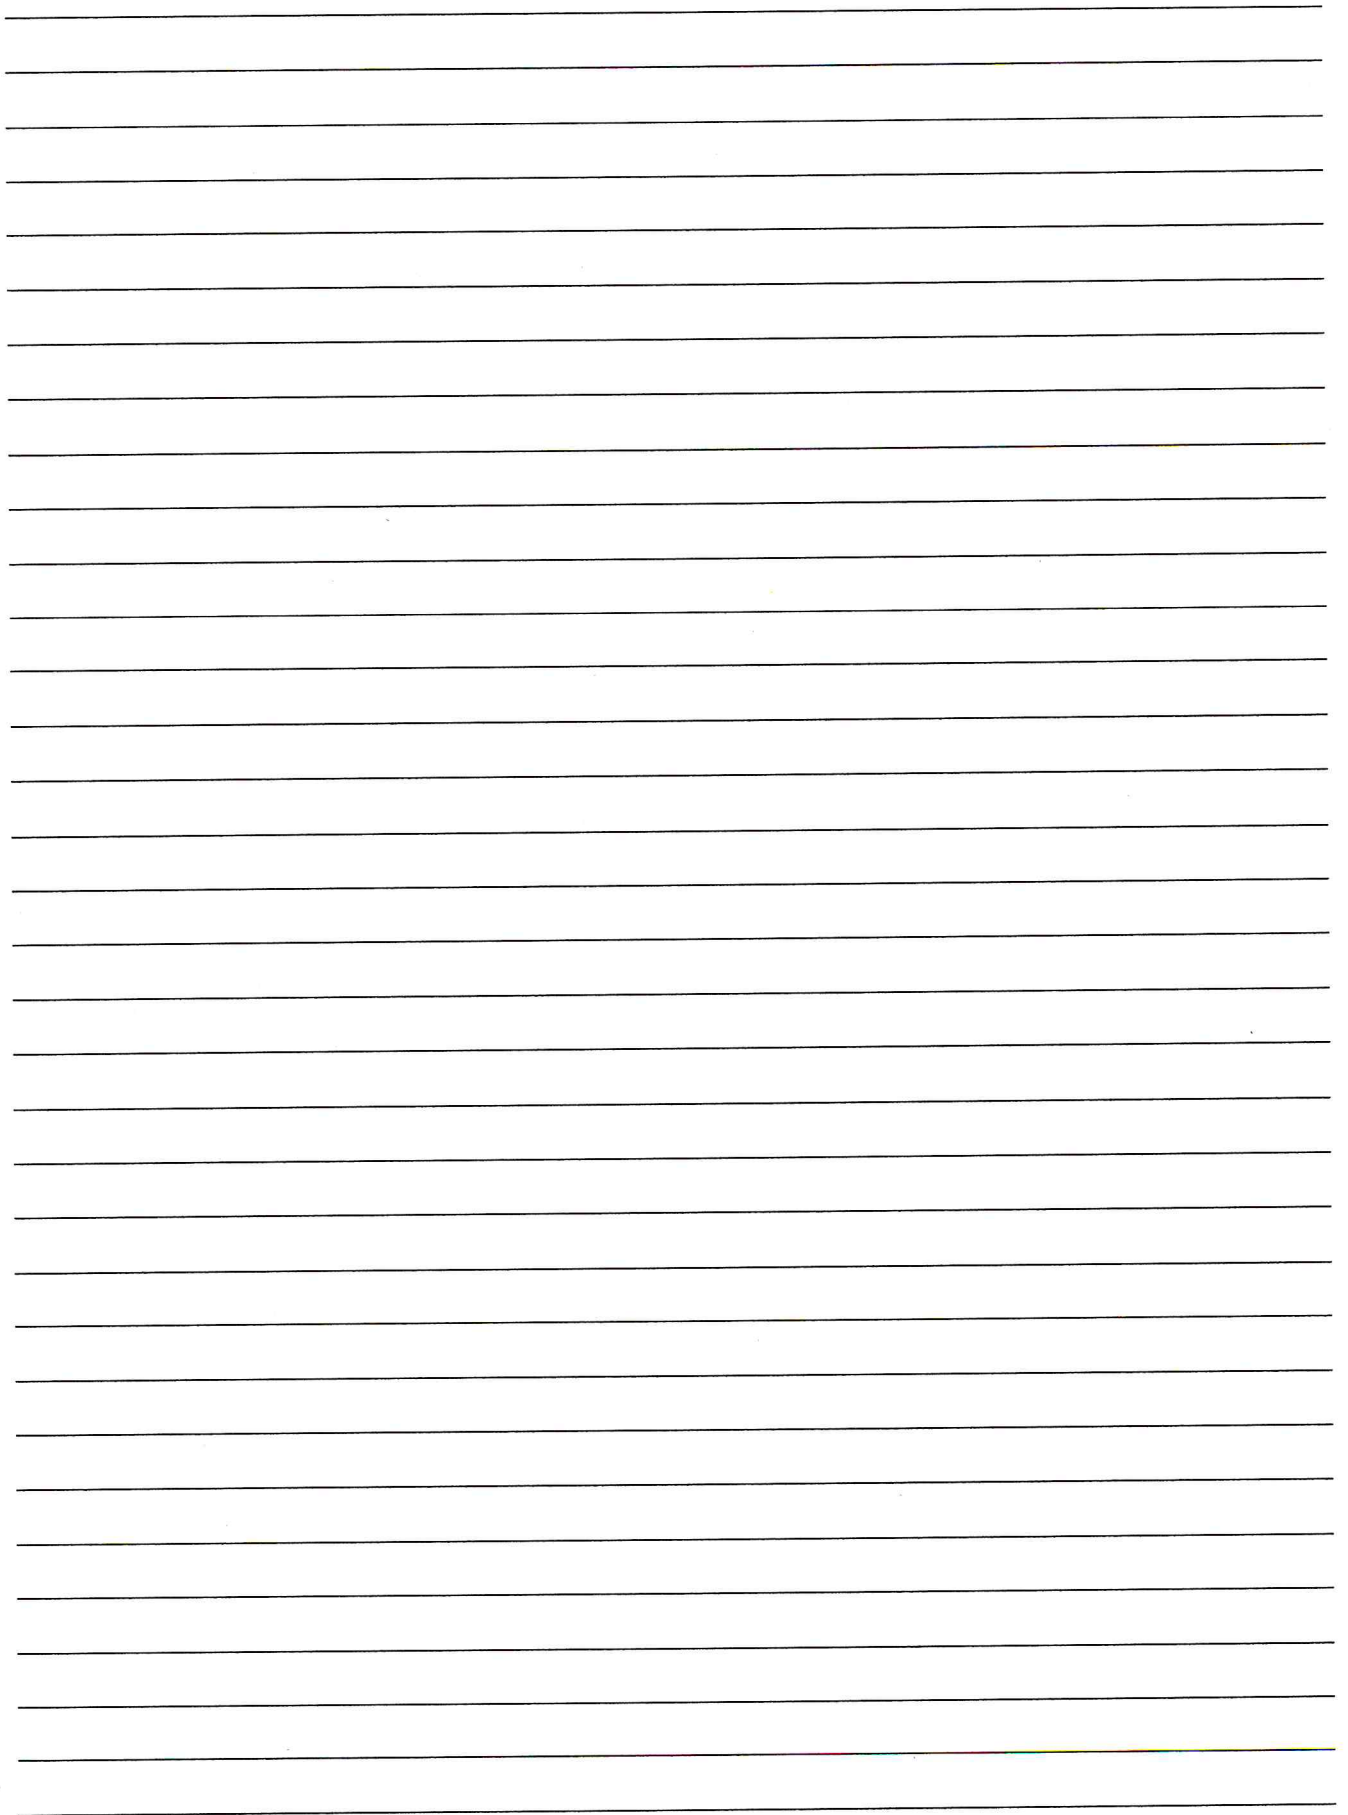

In my view, what you ^{have} become in whole is more important than that you have got on the way to a dream.

Everybody has its own goals & dreams. Perhaps, it is your future job, career, or special event. As for me, I want to be an ~~inter~~ translator. I know, it's hard because you have to know a lot of words & grammar rules, but this is my dream & I don't care about money & career. I can refuse everything to achieve this goal.⁶³ As for me, knowledge & experience, that you get achieving your goals is more important, than money or fame. Just imagine: sport contest, swimming for example. It was hard, but you won. Now you are holding gold medal, but it's just piece of metal, then you understand, that you became stronger, & this is the real treasure!¹²¹

I like travelling & meeting people. I have a lot of friends. Some of them are studying in the university. Most of them don't like their future profession, because they have been forced by parents. My friend Sergey once told me: „I know a lot of people, that don't like their job, but I also know a lot of people, that can eat one loaf of bread whole month, but they like their opportunity.“ I will remember this phrase, because I want to do my work with pleasure²⁻⁰⁹ so, I want to say: „No matter, what are you doing, just follow your dream & you will change this world.“
